Meet in Mill City

Minneapolis, July 14.—Charges that General John J. Pershing had favored regular army troops in his reports to the war department on operations in the World War were made at the third annual reunion of the Rainbow division which opened here today.

The criticism was made by J. F. Little, president of the California chapter of the division, who charged that in the final report of General Pershing on activities of the American Expeditionary Forces, the 42nd division did not receive the credit due it for ground taken and positions captured.

He suggested that steps be taken to correct alleged inaccuracies that appear in the records of the war department at Washington and his plan was unanimously adopted by the convention.

"General Pershing in his last report, said that the heights of Sedan were occupied by Americans," Mr. Little said. "He failed to say that the Americans were members of the 42nd division. In other parts of his reports he made the same omission where the 42nd and the 26th division were involved, but he made no omission when he spoke of ground gained by regular army divisions.

"This is unfair to all men who served with the national guard units and it is our duty to correct them."

Plans were begun immediately for the necessary steps to make the corrections considered justified.

Minneapolis, July 14.—Two minutes of silent tribute to comrades who lie beneath the sod overseas marked the opening here today of the two-day annual reunion of the Rainbow division Veterans' association.

Several hundred delegates from the 27 states represented in the division were welcomed to the city by Mayor George E. Leach, president of the association. Mayor Leach served as a colonel in command of the 151st field artillery.

Subjects to be discussed at the gathering include definition of the term "Americanization" and practical means of enforcing it; aid in securing the passage of the alien registration bill now before Congress, and obtaining erection of monuments to mark graves of Rainbow men in France.

GIRL INMATES
SEEK LIBERTY14 Gain Temporary Freedom from Detention Home

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—Police remained on duty at the House of Good Shepherd, a girl's detention home today, to prevent a recurrence of the break for liberty which resulted in 14 of the inmates gaining temporary freedom yesterday. Other officers and officials of the juvenile court started an investigation to determine the cause of the uprising which threatened, before police reinforcements arrived to result in scores of escapes.

The girl inmates, ranging in age from 16 to 19 years, scaled the wall and fled through streets and alleys before police arrived and forced them into the building. A fight ensued in which some of the blue coat sustained scratches, lacerated shins and bites.

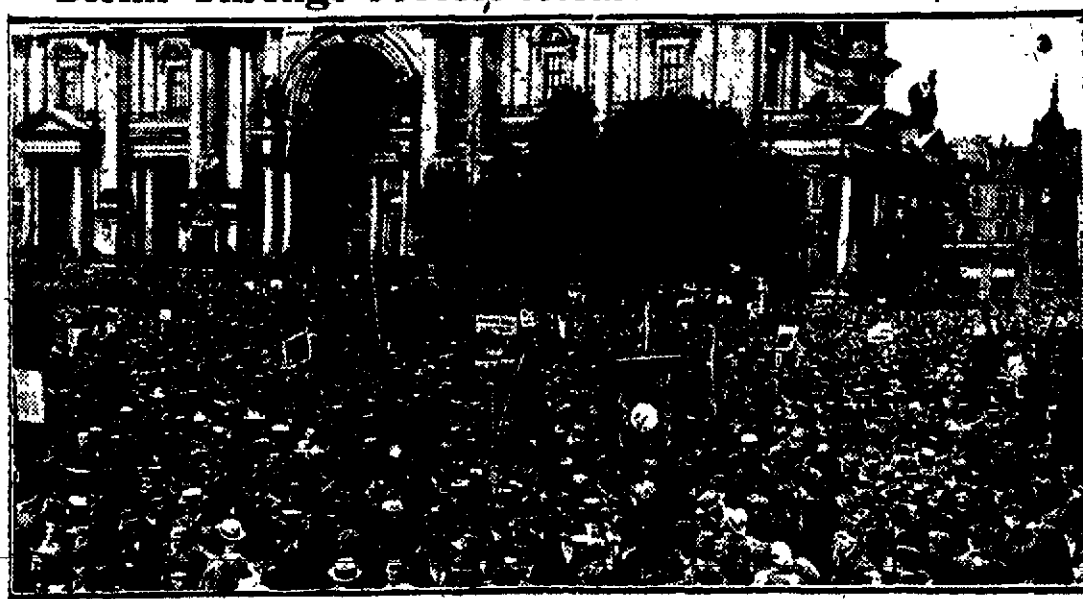

The Sister Superior announced she believed the trouble was incited as a protest against the recent transfer of a sister who had been directly in charge of the inmates and to whom they had been attached.

IN NATIONAL PARK

Miles City, Mont., July 14.—Editors from 27 states thrilled through an afternoon of wild western life from Medora, N. D., to Miles City, Mont.

The excitement rose to high pitch on the outskirts of Miles City when masked bandits held up the Northern Pacific special train and at the point of guns forced poor newspapermen, without regard to age or beauty, to stand and deliver the meager savings of lives of toll.

These savings were redeemed, however, by presenting as hostages W. H. Wheeler, of Vergennes, Vt.; Dora Wheeler, of Vergennes, Vermont; Dora Adriance, of Seneca, Kansas, and G. L. Caswell, of Ames, Iowa. After a special adventure with kidnappers these unhappy journalists at length escaped after a thrilling ride across the plains.

And then came the Cheyenne Indians with their fantastic costumes, war paint and peaceful dances. The Miles City boys staged a miniature roundup for the visitors which was crowded with thrills and excitement, some of the west's most accomplished riders taking part in the bucking contests.

Glendive broke the tension of western excitement by passing out sweet pea bougainvillees to the gentlemen and moss agates to the ladies. The Glendive boys' band of 40 pieces serenaded the journalists.

Nearly a full day of entertainment was arranged at Billings.

Everybody was looking forward with keen anticipation to the Yellowstone Park trip, which began today.

Austin, Minn., July 14.—One man said to be a relative of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, who were attacked with an axe by an unidentified person in their home in Grand Meadow some time Wednesday night and Mr. Wagner killed, is held without charge in the county jail here.

Mr. Wagner was killed while in bed and Mrs. Wagner is still unconscious from five gashes in her head. The murder was not discovered until late Thursday afternoon, when a daughter, Mrs. Alvin Sorom living near her parents, became suspicious after she had failed to receive an answer over the telephone. She hastened to the home and found the body of her father stretched across the bed and her mother crumpled in a heap of the floor. The axe used in the attack was found lying beside the mother.

The man in the county jail today is being held awaiting the outcome of an inquest. Bloodhounds were brought from Waterloo, Iowa, early this morning and after following a trail for more than a mile, gave up the chase. Officials, however, will try to pick up the lost trail later today.

Investigation of conditions in the room in which the crime was committed, indicated that Mr. Wagner was killed without being awakened, but his wife, it appears, fought her assailant.

Familiar with Home
That the assailant was familiar with the Wagner home is the opinion expressed by authorities here today. They were unable, however, to explain where the axe came from. The axe, belonging to Mr. Wagner, was found in its usual place in a woodshed.

That the motive for the crime was robbery, was discounted by the fact that $30 was found in the room where the killing was done.

WEEKS HOLDS ARMY ORDER

Washington, July 14.—Pending receipt of a reply to his telegram of yesterday C. E. Schaff of St. Louis, receiver for the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, advising the union protection for the road's property in the strike, Secretary Weeks was withholding further orders today regarding preparations for the use of federal troops.

Press reports from Dallas, however, quoting Governor Neff as stating state troops would not be ordered out "at this time," appeared to increase the chances President Harding would direct the use of federal troops.

WILL ARREST UNION LEADERS

Topeka, Kan., July 14.—Warning that union officials who transmit or post strike notices for the proposed strike of railway stationary engineers, firemen and oilers, will be prosecuted under the industrial court act, was announced today by Governor H. Other shifts the strikers declared, will not report for work. They say that between 400 and 500 men will be involved in the walkout.

ASK RESTRAINING ORDER

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14.—Charging interference with interstate commerce and the transportation of the United States mails, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company filed a petition for temporary restraining order in the United States district court here today. Fifty six defendants, including the organization's officers and individual members of the railroad unions on strike are named in the petition.

St. Louis, July 14.—Officials of the Washab railroad here announced they had obtained a temporary injunction in federal court at Little Rock, Arkansas, today restraining striking shopmen from illegal picketing and unlawful acts. The petition also asked $1,500,000 from the shopmen's union for alleged damages suffered by the road as the result of the strike.

Pressure by many of his general chairmen upon E. F. Grable, president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, pushed the common labor problem to the front again. Mr. Grable's action in withholding strike orders after maintenance of way workers voted to join the walkout, did not set well with many of the organizations general chairmen, who passed on to their chief, the persistent demands of the rank and file for concerted action.

Mr. Grable arrived in Chicago while threats to disregard his refusal to join the walkout came from within his organization. The general chairmen, he asserted, had no authority to call a strike and he indicated an intention to remain firm in his refusal to sanction a strike.

(By the Associated Press)
Washington, July 14.—It became definitely known today that John L. Indianapolis, Ind., July 14.—Bituminous coal operators have not yet formed their reply to President Harding's proposal but according to A. M. tacks on Strikebreakers Continue in Many Railroad Centers Throughout the Country

(By the Associated Press)
Chicago, July 14.—A strike call to the 8,000 stationary firemen, engineers and oilers employed on railroads throughout the United States has been issued, Timothy Healy, international president of the organization announced today.

The strike is effective next Monday, July 17 at 8 a. m. The call was made in compliance with the recent referendum which favored a walkout, Mr. Healy said.

Stationary firemen and oilers on various roads had already joined in a sympathetic walkout with the railway shop crafts.

"We are into the fight and we intend to win," Mr. Healy said.

CHICAGO, JULY 14.—Railway union leaders today said they expected to hold the maintenance of way laborers in check and prevent a general walkout in which 400,000 shop and track workers threaten to join the striking shop crafts employees.

Both E. F. Grable, president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers and B. M. Jewell, head of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, of which the maintenance of way union is a member, expressed the conviction that the organization would be able to carry out the peace program recently outlined as a result of conferences with the United States railroad labor board.

President Grable laid the blame for the newest strike talk which cropped out again at Cincinnati last night when T. C. Carroll, chairman of the general chairman's association, said the chairman might demand a strike sanction, at the door of "a few deserters."

"There are always some men in every organization who are waving the red flag," said Mr. Grable today. "There are always a few deserters. If the general chairman should advise their men to strike and they should do so, it would be an unlawful strike and would not be recognized by the national officers."

The general chairman's association of which Mr. Carroll is the head, is a separate organization within the maintenance of way union and has no authority to call a strike, according to union officials. It could make recommendations to the union but has no power to function otherwise.

Many Fresh Outbreaks

Fresh outbreaks notably in Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri; President Harding determined steps to keep the mails moving, and informal negotiations for a settlement of the shopmen's strike on seventeen roads in the northwest were among other important developments of the last 24 hours.

Pressure by many of his general chairmen upon E. F. Grable, president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, pushed the common labor problem to the front again. Mr. Grable's action in withholding strike orders after maintenance of way workers voted to join the walkout, did not set well with many of the organizations general chairmen, who passed on to their chief, the persistent demands of the rank and file for concerted action.

Mr. Grable arrived in Chicago while threats to disregard his refusal to join the walkout came from within his organization. The general chairmen, he asserted, had no authority to call a strike and he indicated an intention to remain firm in his refusal to sanction a strike.

The new crisis caused by threats from the maintenance men arrived as peace moves to end the shopmen's strike had apparently slowed up materially.

U. S. Officer Beaten
Meanwhile disturbances in connection with the strike continued. A Deputy United States Marshal at Muskogee, Oklahoma, was beaten and kidnapped by a band of 20 men in automobiles.

A 17 year old worker in the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad shops at Muskogee was assaulted and the round house crew joined the strike.

Two men were beaten at East St. Louis and a mob attacked the Northern Pacific roundhouse at Oroville, California. At Gary, Indiana, a crowd of strikers stormed a street car in search of strike-breakers.

John H. Wood, United States marshal for the Northern district of Mississippi, ordered a force of deputies to Amory, Mississippi, to take charge of the situation in the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad shops. Deputy marshals were also sent to Roadhouse, division point of the Chicago and Alton.

Major General John L. Hines, commanding the Eighth Army Corps area at San Antonio, Texas, was under orders from President Harding

ST. PAUL SHOP CRAFT LEADER SEES EARLY STRIKE SETTLEMENT; NORTHWEST SITUATION UNCHANGED

(By the Associated Press) St. Paul, July 14.—Prospects for an early settlement of the national strike of railway shopmen on a basis of informal negotiations conducted in conferences here between union leaders and representatives of the various railroads centering in the Twin Cities and the northwest, seemed bright early today in the opinion of union men and railroad executives. Confidence that the end of the strike which has threatened to disrupt rail communication is near was expressed by R. A. Henning, chairman of the Federated Shop Crafts of the Northwest district. Mr. Henning said that "it is entirely possible that the strike will be settled on a national basis in Chicago within the next forty-eight hours." Several conferences have been held here between officers of the railroads and union men, headed by Mr. Henning. At yesterday's meeting the basis of the proposed settlement was informally discussed. Included in the suggestion that the men return to work at the wage scale provided in the order of the railroad labor board pending filing of an application for a readjustment of wages. Another suggestion was that the railroads would agree to abolish the contract system and would begin consideration of the question of overtime. If these suggestions do not lead to a national settlement of the walk-out, it was indicated that the informal conferences with the 17 roads centering in this section would be resumed in an effort to effect a settlement in the northwest. Union men here favor a nationwide agreement but it was declared that the most friendly feeling exists between railroad officials here and their employees and a separate pact for the northwest is a possibility, it was said. Strike leaders and company officials agreed that the strike could be easily ended today as far as the northwest is concerned. It is estimated there are 100,000 shop workers in the Twin Cities and 15,000 more in other parts of the northwest.

dan Lodge, acted as representative for his fellow lodge members in expressing the honor they felt in having Mr. Ripley elected to such an honored position. In response Mr. Ripley stated that he was much honored by the reception given by his fellow townsmen. He also spoke of the work planned by the lodge for the coming year. During the evening a quartette composed of A. E. Peterson, R. E. Lutz, Walter Tostevin, and George H. Wilson, sang. Mrs. M. Morris played several piano numbers. Mrs. W. E. Fitzsimmons sang a solo. Mrs. E. B. Wilkinson and Miss Euleta Crosthwaite sang a duet. During the latter part of the evening dancing and cards were enjoyed.

While no out-of-town games have been arranged yet, the young women expect to challenge other B. & P. W. teams.

Among the other officials who visited at the U. S. Northern Great Plains Field station were Prof. L. R. Waldron of the state agriculture college, W. L. Westover who has charge of the federal work of investigation of forest crops, and Allen Clark of the department of agriculture cereal office.

HAGEN SCORES 2 UNDER PAR

(By the Associated Press) Glencoe, Ill., July 14.—Walter Hagen topped the field in the first round of the national open golf championship at Skokie today by scoring 68, two under par. He was out in 34 and with birdie three on the 14th and 16th, managed to return in the same figures. His playing partner, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, took 39 to get out and came home in one under par for a 74.

DULUTH FARE BOOST ORDERED

(By the Associated Press) St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—Increase in street car fare in Duluth to six cents each fare or five tickets for 25 cents was authorized in a decision of the "Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission made public today by Fred W. Putnam, commissioner. The present fare in Duluth is five cents. The commission's decision which becomes effective August 1, denies the application of the Duluth Street Railway Company for a fare of seven cents or four rides for 25 cents, stating that such an increase is not necessary for a just return on the company's capital. The decision is in reply to the application of the Duluth Street Railway Company, hearings upon which were held at Duluth January 10th and 11th this year, January 8th and 31st and February 1st.

CITY TO APPEAL

(By the Associated Press) Duluth, Minn., July 14.—Appeal from the railroad and warehouse commission's ruling granting the Duluth Street Railway Company six cent single fare and five rides for 25 cents will be made by the city, according to City Attorney Richards. The city will also ask for a temporary injunction restraining the company from putting the new fare in effect until the appeal case is settled. In addition to the objection to the ruling the city will attack the commission's ruling on two points. The commission granted the company seven and one-half per cent return on its investment. The city believes that six per cent is ample. The city will also attack the valuation of the property. The company valued its property at $4,599,978.22 on July 1, 1921. The assets of the company are estimated at between $5,000,000.

MAN LOSES HOPE

"For ten years I suffered severely from stomach trouble. The doctors said I had cancer of the stomach and nothing would do but an operation. I took my last round of May's Wonderful Remedy 2 1/2 years ago. Since then I sleep well, eat what I want and feel fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

DAIRYING IS PROFITABLE

Last week we referred to the fact that farmers, just like all manufacturers, have to address themselves to the problem of "finishing" their products, and we pointed out that DAIRYING is the most-profitable kind of farming the world knows anything about and lends itself easily to the job of being "finished" right on the farm.

Let us tell you what happened in Todd County, a small county of 28 townships in central Minnesota.

Up to 1900 the county was almost exclusively a grain raising county. Farmers were not prosperous. Crops were not certain because they were at the mercy of the elements and the farmer has no control over the elements. The best farm in the county could have been bought for from fifty to sixty dollars per acre. There were three banks in the entire county and their total deposits were $164,660.00. The country had been farmed for more than forty years. It was not a new or a frontier county. Its failure to prosper was due to the fact that agriculture was on the wrong basis—the farmers were trying to produce and sell "raw material" and, like the producers of raw material generally, they were not getting anywhere.

In 1900 the change to dairying began. Co-operative creameries were organized. Herds were improved along dairy lines and gradually the production of butterfat became the chief activity of the farmer.

By 1921 there was hardly a grain elevator in the county. They had given way to the creameries. There were fourteen wholly within the county and eight more on the border line. Bank statements published at the end of 1921 showed deposits of more than six million dollars. The country is wholly agricultural and the greater part of its deposits belonged to the farmers. A jump in savings from $164,000.00 to more than $6,000,000.00 in twenty-one years tells the story of what dairying did for the farmers of Todd County, Minnesota.

What dairying did for the farmers of Todd County, it can do for the farmers of this county. Conditions here are substantially the same. It is not harder to start here than it was to start there. Let's investigate this dairy business.

PECULIAR MOODS
Do you ever, in walking along a street, try to step on every crack in the sidewalk, or change the length of your strides to avoid stepping on cracks altogether?
In going upstairs, do you have impulses to take certain steps "two at a time," or count the number of steps?
Famous old Dr. Samuel Johnson had a similar habit. In taking a walk he could not resist hitting each picket of a fence with his cane. Sometimes, he wrote, it became an obsession with him that he had missed a picket. Then he would walk back several blocks and hit the annoying picket with great satisfaction.
Every one, at some time or other,
has peculiar impulses of this sort.
Few stop to analyze them.
These absurd impulses or habits are mid symptoms of psychasthenia, according to Dr. Abraham Myerson, who teaches neurology in Tufts Medical School.
Psychasthenia, says Dr. Myerson, is a disease—one of the forms of nervous and mental disorders which the public calls "nervousness." It is characterized by "obsessions," the scientist calls "neuroticisms." Generally these peculiar impulses can be eliminated by will power.
Every one has them at times, so no use worrying about them. We all have "crazy moments."
Psychasthenia, however, can develop into a decidedly diseased condition that interferes with happiness and efficiency.
In the background is the Disease of Fear.
In advanced cases, fear becomes an extreme dread "of close diseases, of being alone, of dirt, of disease, all kinds and manners of situation."
In extreme psychasthenia, says Dr. Myerson, the difficulty of making up the mind—of deciding—becomes so great that a person may suffer an agony of internal debate about crossing the street, putting on the clothing, eating the meals—in fact, about every detail of acting and thinking.
The scientist who specializes on abnormalities of the body's endocrine glands says and says that fear is the result of imperfect functioning of the adrenal glands, attached to the kidneys.
Opposed to him is the mental scientist who claims that it's the other way around, that mental disorders cause the glandular "acting up." Regardless of which is right, it is a good thing that attention is finally being paid to mental health as well as bodily health. We live in a highly nervous age, with many times more sane people outside asylum walls than within.
NATURE PROVIDES
Any North Dakotan who is inclined to be pessimistic probably will cheer up during the coming fall and winter. While his friends down east are crying for coal and very likely, in spite of Mr. Hoover's efforts, paying a high price for it because the demand will exceed the supply, he will be able to keep warm with fuel that nature has provided almost literally at his front door.
The great state of Minnesota is worried over the prospect of a fuel famine. South Dakota looks hopefully toward her neighbors to the north, Iowa, Wisconsin and other states in the middle west fear industry will be curtailed. But North Dakotans can smile serenely.
There is, scientists tell us, an almost limitless supply of lignite coal in North Dakota. It can warm the home, keep the wheels of industry turning. It is easy to mine and is cheaper than coal in many other states.
The future of the lignite industry looks promising. And when science has shown how to make briquettes and compress the heat units it surely will become a great industry.
MARS
The mysterious radio messages, which Marconi thought might be from Mars, are traced to their source. They were sent out by Dr.
Irving Langmuir, from the General Electric laboratories at Schenectady, N. Y. The wave length was 150,000 meters.
If human nature to look for an explanation far off, instead of close at hand. We seldom see things "right under our nose."
The Martian planet flivver, however, does not prove that people do not live on Mars. After talking to us and getting a line on present conditions on earth, they'd probably
"hang up the receiver" with a bang.
STRANGERS
A waitress in a railroad lunchroom at Council Bluffs, Iowa, a few months ago was pleasant and courteous to a gruff, old roughly-dressed stranger. He learned that she never accepted a tip.
The gruff stranger turned out to be a rich gentleman. The waitress is no longer a waitress, for he sent her a check for $10,000 and a deed to 1000 acres of land in Nebraska.
It pays to be decent and kindly to every one. You never know to whom you are talking, in meeting strangers.

ROCKEFELLER
John D. Rockefeller, world's richest man, in the last 18 months has given $130,000,000 for medical research, education, etc. His total gifts have passed the $500,000,000 mark.
Rockefeller's charity is guided by his belief that poverty is due to ignorance and disease. He fights poverty by attacking its causes. It is a good system and he sees to it that every dollar is wisely spent.
The rest of us cannot give away such huge sums, but we help whenever we buy gasoline or any other of John D.'s wares.

RICHES
A Philadelphia lawyer quit his profession to build up a small church.
His name, Russell H. Conwell. You may have heard his lecture, "Acres of Diamonds."
This one lecture made him so much money that his gifts to charity, mostly to poor students, total over $11,000,000.
A lot of money, from one lecture.
And the lecture can be condensed into one sentence: "The big opportunities are at home, not on the other side of the hills."
It is sound philosophy and has made fortunes for tens of thousands besides Dr. Conwell.

SPECIAL
To keep up with progress, the messenger boy on the blue special delivery stamp hereafter will be seen riding a motorcycle instead of his familiar old "bike."
He has been a faithful boy, year in and year out. Who is so phlegmatic that he does not thrill and have a quickened pulse at sight of the blue rider on an important piece of mail? Yes, even though there have been times when he might more appropriately be mounted on a turtle.

SWAT!
Are flies bothering you this summer? Bacteriologists check up and announce that the house fly is a carrier of the germs of 180 different diseases. The diseases range from typhoid and tuberculosis to hook-worm and amoebic dysentery.
Flies are the advance agents of sickness and death. They have been reduced by repeated swatting campaigns. But they multiply quickly when swatting lags. Keep after them constantly, folks!

INTELLIGENT RAILROAD REGU-LATION
The railroad strike has again focused the attention of Americans on the railroad problem. After exhaustive study of the whole railroad situation, Dr. S. H. Paine, professor of Economics in the University of Michigan, reaches the conclusion that neither unrestrained individualism nor Federal control and nationalization is satisfactory. Both have been tried and proved to be inadequate.
The period from 1880 to 1870 was one of railroad building under private initiative. Marvels were accomplished in the extension and development of the system. But speculation entered and frauds were not a few. Undue competition led to discrimination against and then to pooling arrangements. As a reaction against these evils, came a period of regulation that continued to the World War.
During all this period, however, regulation was motivated by popular suspicion and animosity. The economic necessities of the railroads were not recognized, and the whole policy of regulation was negative rather than constructive. It aimed to protect the public against positive abuses rather than to build up a unified, efficient and seasonal regulative transportation system.
With America's entrance into the war came the period of Federal control which in some quarters was expected to lead to complete nationalization. But the weight of American opinion is justifiably opposed to nationalization, believes Dr. Sharf-man. It cannot command the executive ability that private business does. It inevitably means an unwieldy organization, an undue multiplication of personnel, inflation of costs, impairment of service and in the end complete demoralization.

What remedy does Dr. Sharfman see? He concludes that the policy of intelligent regulation is the only one that conserves the fruits of private initiative and promotes the public good. So far intelligent regulation has not been developed in this country. It has been too largely based on haphazard statutory rules or political expediency.
But the creation of a permanent railroad commission marks a great step in advance. Its further development, not only in personnel, but in methods and powers, is, Dr. Sharf-man believes, the best way to escape from the Scylla of individualism and the Charybdis of nationalization.—The Minneapolis Journal.

SELF-DEFEATING VIOLENCE Violence is usually the last stage of a strike, the preliminary to acknowledging defeat. Hence mob action by the railway shompen, even going so far in some states as to interfere with interstate commerce and the movement of the United States, is to be taken as a sign that desperate men in the union feel that they have been misled by their leaders, and that their cause cannot be won by peaceful methods. In that case, it cannot be won at all. The rule has been that violence by strikers is self-defeating. It always is if the public authorities do their duty.
If the strikers do not act with prompt and effective vigor the Washington Government must. Trains have been discontinued for "lack of protection."
The Government is unable to furnish it. The President cannot allow to do it. He said on the Fourth of July that liberty is gone in America

if men are not allowed to work where and how they choose. There is an ample warrant for the Federal Government to intervene, if necessary. Under the law regulating railroads, it is bound to do everything needful to support its own agency, the Railroad Labor Board. Furthermore, railway communication between the states is now clearly a matter of Federal jurisdiction. If traffic is broken up by force, the National Government is bound to meet it with greater force.
The country will look to President Harding to stand ready to put down disorder, if it spreads and becomes serious in the railway strike. A clear and firm statement by him of the Federal Government's position of itself be a great help in preventing further violence.—New York Times.

MINERS' GRIEVANCES THE RED ROCK OF THE COAL QUESTION Statistics, facts, principles and practice of administration have their indisputable place in movements for social reform; but they cannot replace the force that comes from being the possessor of a deep and lasting grievance. The persons whose above all are hurt by the disorganization of the coal industry are not the public, which from time to time complain of high prices and shortage of coal and soon forget their complaints, nor the political administration which sees in the coal strike a further and disastrous postponement of the return of business prosperity, but the 750,000 coal miners who,
with high wage rates, receive a starvation wage; who, without ceremony are evicted from their homes; and who in these democratic United States only too often have seen their rights as free men seized and trampled upon, and destroyed. If the drive for new industry does not come from the coal miners themselves, it is not likely, for a very long time at least, to come with great effectiveness from any other quarter.—The New Republic.

STRIKES AND DISORDER
Riot and disorder marked the progress of the coal strike until the climax was reached in the Herrin massacre. The strike of railway workmen, though involving a much smaller number of men, also marked by violence which increases as the strike continues.

In the progress of any great strike violence is next to inevitable. The purpose of the strike is to enforce certain demands of the strikers. That purpose will be defeated if the work of the employers is made to go on as before. The strikers, therefore, look with strong disfavor on the employment of other men to take their places. The employers desire their work to continue, and invite other labor to replace that which is idle. Working places are picked, insulting remarks are exchanged.
Somebody else fires a shot, and the fight is on. The first overt act of violence may be committed by one side or the other. The fact is that both sides are expecting violence, and are prepared to play their part in it when it comes. Violence grows out of the strike conditions, and is practically inseparable from them. The way to avoid violence is to settle the strike before it occurs.—Grand Forks Herald.

IN KOKOMO
Two solid men of Dayton, Ohio, were spending some vacation days at the Wright brothers' bicycle repairers, who were reported to have discovered how men could fly. Said the elder doubter: "I don't believe it! Nobody's ever going to invent a flying machine. It stands to reason. And if anybody ever did, it wouldn't be anybody from Dayton."
Kokomo, Ind., suffers from none of this reversed patriot patriotism. Today in that shrine of reverent inventors a granite monument will be dedicated by the Indiana historical commission and the Hoosier State Automobile association in honor of Elwood Haynes, Dayton, designer and builder of America's first mechanically successful automobile.
The celebrants carefully limit their praise. The Wright brothers taught the world to fly so far as heavier than air machines are concerned.
Nothing is said of Mr. Haynes. Having taught Europe anything in the manufacture of horseless carriages, as they used to be called. All over the world thousands of inventors were working upon the problems of the automobile. The vast output of today owes something to them all.
Some day, somewhere, some historical society may erect a monument to the man or men who, by perfecting the gasoline engine, made possible not only the airplane, with its swift and amazing development, but the prevailing type of automotive road vehicle. Today, Kokomo has the floor.—New York World.

UNUSUAL FOLK

Washington, July 14.—Here he is, tional capital. And a bachelor.

Testing out recipes is his hobby.
Also his business. For as chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, Dr.
C. F. Longworthy is supposed to know all the latest wrinkles in culinary calisthenics. He can tell you how to prevent undercurrent of custard and berry pies from becoming soggy or how to produce a doughnut that will take up the lowest percentage of the fat in which it is fried.
Professionally, Longworthy is willing to help the ladies to the

But personally—well, that's different! Anyway, he's still unmarried.
And when he wants a good

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts
"Dr. Snuffles, Dr. Snuffles!" called Nancy to the kind little fairy gentlemen who doctored all the creatures in Outdoor Land. "Here's Mrs. Robbin to see you."
"All right, I'll be down in a minute," called the doctor, shaving, so he hurried.
"Why, Mrs. Robin, how do you do today?" he said. "You don't look a bit sick."
"And neither I am," answered Mrs. Robin, sadly shaking her head.
"It's not I, doctor, it's my new babies. They hatched out of their eggs yesterday and instead of being lovely little fluffy darlings, as I had expected, they're as bare as doorknobs.
There isn't a feather or a bit of fuzz on them and they look awful. I'm so disappointed!"
Mrs. Robin began to cry.
"Never mind, madam," said Dr.
Snuffles. "I think I can help you.
I'll give you something that will make your children have lovely soft feathers in about three weeks' time." Dr. Snuffles called to Nick to bring him some milkweed and poke-berries. These he squeezed and mixed together. Then he handed Mrs. Robin a bottle with some instructions.
"Will that medicine really do any good?" asked Nancy when Mrs. Robin had gone. "I thought all baby robins were bare and it took three weeks for their feathers to grow."
"That's right," nodded Dr. Snuffles. "It does. But in the meantime Mrs. Robin won't be worrying her head off, and that medicine won't hurt 'em a bit. There are tricks to all trades, my dear."

TODAY'S WORD

Today's word is FACSIMILE.
It's pronounced fak-sim-ile, with accent on second syllable. The c is pronounced like the first e in event. All other vowels are short.
It can be used as a noun, meaning "an exact likeness," as a transitive verb, meaning "to copy precisely, or attributively," as "facsimile documents."
It comes from the Latin facere, to make, and similis, like.
It's used like this: "It was a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence."
As Grey rushed for his sword, Erskine heard the best of horses hoofs.
He snatched it from the ground and turned, and as he rushed for Erskine, Colonel Dale swung from his horse. The sword-blade

DALE
by JOHN FOX Jr.
Continued From Our Last Issue
"It seems you have been amusing yourself with my kinspeople at my expense." Grey drew himself up in haughty silence. Erskine went on:
"I have known some lads who were not cowards."
"You remember a promise I made you once?"
"Twice," connected Erskine.
Grey's eyes flashed upward to the crossed rapier on the wall.
"Precisely," answered Erskine
"and when?"
Barbara, reappearing, heard their last words, and she came forward pale and with piercing eyes:
"Cousin Erskine, I want to apologize to you for my little faith. Mr.
Grey your horse will be at the door at once. I wish you a safe journey—to your command."
Erskine was on the porch when Grey came out to mount his horse.
"You will want seconds?" asked Grey.
"They might try to stop us—no!"
"I shall ride slowly," Grey said.
Erskine bowed.
"I shall not."
Within half an hour Barbara, passing through the hall, saw that the rapiers were gone from the wall and she stopped, with the color fled from her face and her hand on her heart.
In a few moments she had found Harry and Hugh. While their horses were being saddled her father rode up.
"Light murder," cried Larry, "and Grey knows it. Erskine knows nothing about a rapier."
Without a word Colonel Dale wheeled his tired horse and room Harry and Hugh tumbled after him.
Barbara walked back to the house, wringing her hands, but on the porch she sat quietly in the agony of waiting that was the role of women in those days.
Meanwhile, Freddy was skimming along the river road. Grey had kept his word. He was waiting between two plantations.
Grey hitched his horses, and Erskine followed into a pleasant glade—a grassy glade through which murmured a little stream. Erskine dropped the rapiers on the sward.
"Take your choice," he said.
"There is none," said Grey, picking up the one nearer to him.
"When you are ready," Erskine said.
"Ready!" answered Grey, and lunged.
Erskine merely whipped at his blade and sprang backward. He was as quick as an eyelash and lithe as a panther, and yet Grey almost laughed aloud.
All Erskine did was to whip the thrusting blade aside and leap out of danger like a flash of light. It was like an inept boxer flailing according to rules unknown—and Grey's face flamed and actually turned anxious.
Then, Erskine's blade caught in Grey's guard by accident, and the powerful wrist behind it seeking merely to wrench the weapon loose tore Grey's rapier from his grasp and hurled it ten feet away. With his sword's point on the earth, he waited courteously for Grey to recover his weapon.
As Grey rushed for his sword,
Erskine heard the best of horses
hoofs.
He snatched it from the ground and turned, and as he rushed
for Erskine, Colonel Dale swung
from his horse. The sword-blade eyes, for all heard the coming of a horseman, and the sound of a sword.

The thickened curve of the road came Barbara, with her face white and her hair streaming behind her. She pulled her pony in but a few feet in front of them, with burning eyes on Erskine alone.
"Have you killed him—have you killed him? If you have—" She stopped hopeless, and all were so amazed that none could answer.
Erskine shook his head. There was a flash of relief in the girl's white face, its recklessness gave way to sudden shame, and without a word, he wheeled and was away again—Harry flying after her. No one spoke. Colonel Dale looked at Erskine's heart again turned sick.
XVI.
As the dusk gathered that evening, Erskine, looking gloomily through the window, saw Barbara sitting like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her. On the thick turf the colonel's feet were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sun-dial he too paused.
"Little girl!" he called, and no lover's voice could have been more gentle. "Come here!"
She turned and saw him, the low moon lighting all the tenderness in his fine old face, and she flew to him. In wise silence he stroked her hair until she grew a little calmer.
"What's the matter, little daughter?"
"—I didn't want anybody harm'd."
"I know. It's too bad, but none of us seem quite to trust Mr. Grey."
"That's it," she sobbed; "I don't either, and yet—"
"I know. I know. My little girl must be wise and brave. Mother is not well and she must not be made unhappy too. Can't my little girl come back to the house now?
She must be hostess and this is Erskine's last night." She looked

Fokker's Inventions

up, brushing away her tears.
"His last night?" Ah, wise old colonel!
She took her father's arm, and when they reached the steps Erskine saw her smiling. And smiling, almost gay, she was at supper, sitting with exquisite dignity in her mother's place. Harry and Hugh looked amazed, and her father, who knew the bit of tempered steel she was, smiled his encouragement proudly. Of Erskine who sat at her right—she asked many questions about the coming campaign.
After supper the little lady excused herself with a smiling courtesy to go to her mother. Erskine found himself in the moonlight on the big portico with Colonel Dale alone.
"Erskine," he said, "you make it very difficult for me to keep your secret. It was a boyish impulse of generosity which made you give this estate to Barbara."
"Never," interrupted the boy. "I have no use—less than ever now."
"Barbara would not accept your sacrifice nor would any of us, and it is only fair that I should warn you that some day, if you should change your mind, and we were no longer living, you might be too late."
"Please don't, Uncle Harry. It is done—done. Of course, it wasn't fair for me to consider Barbara alone, but she will be fair and you understand. I wish you would regard the whole matter as though I didn't exist."
Then Erskine's eyes darkened.
"Uncle Harry, you may think me foolish, but I don't like or trust Grey. What was he doing with those British traders out in the Northwest?—he was not buying furs.
It's absurd. He was in a hand in glove with Lord Dunmore?"
"Lord Dunmore had a daughter," was the dry reply, and Erskine lunged out a gesture that made words unnecessary. Colonel Dale crossed the porch and put his hands on the lad's shoulder.
"Erskine," he said, "don't worry—and don't give up hope. Be patient, wait, come back to us. Go to William and Mary. Fit yourself to be one of us in all ways. Then everything may yet come out in the only way that would be fitting and satisfactory."
Colonel Dale went on earnestly:
"I can think of nothing in the world that would make me quite so happy."
"It's no use," the boy said tremblingly. "I'm not fit for her nor for this life. I can't get over my life in the woods and among the Indians. I can't explain, but I get choked and I can't breathe—such a longing for the woods comes over me and I can't help me. I must go—and nothing can hold me."
"Your father was that way," said Colonel Dale sadly. "You may get over it, but he never did. Good night, and God bless you."
Erskine sat where he was.
The path, those flowers, that house, the setting sun, those grain-fields, those singing black fowls—all his if he but said the words.
There was a lightstep in the hall and Barbara came swiftly out and dropped on the topmost step with her chin in both hands. Almost at once she seemed to feel his presence, for she turned her head quickly.
"Erskine!" As quickly he rose, embarrassed beyond speech.
"I suppose I will always feel guilty if I have made you unhappy," he finally blurted.

CAPITOL
Elnine Hammerstein in her latest Selznick picture, "Why Announce Your Marriage?" is announced as the photoplay feature for the Capitol theater for two days beginning Monday. The story is by Lewis Alton Browne and Alan Crosland and was written specially as a starring vehicle for Miss Hammerstein. Alan Crosland also directed.
"Why Announce Your Marriage?" is a serio-comedy which deals with the ultra-modern method of separately maintained establishments by the contracting parties in marriage. Of course the practice of secretly wedding and living apart is not yet in general practice, but this fact alone which makes the nature of the story novel and therefore of good photoplay material. The novelty of the subject matter and the humorous manner in which the story unfolds makes this one of the most absorbing of the many fine photoplays in which Miss Hammerstein has appeared.
CAMPIN' OUT
Out where th' skies shine clear and blue,
Out where th' lake ripples in th' sun,
There's where I am goin' to go.
When my vacation time has come:
Get me a rod, and a hook and line;
"There's where I am goin' to go."
When I think what a grand old time,
I shall have when I'm campin' out.
Out where th' bull-frog sings his song,
"Chunky ker chunk" all th' livelong night;
Out where th' wind whistles clear and free,
And the moon looks down in her silver light;
There is the place where I long to be,
And so would you, I have no doubt.
If you could know what thing life is,
When you are simply a-campin' out.
Fish for breakfast fresh from th'
lake,
Coffee a-billin' on th' red hot coals,
Send up an aroma to tempt th' Gods, Makin' 'em wish they had mortal souls;
Seems that it is a crime to stay,
Here in th' town when spring's about;
Robin and bluebird a-seemin' to say:
"Why in th' world ain't you campin' out?"
—Florence Borner.

A cry for help in a stormy night starts a young author on a mad chase for hidden treasure on a tropical isle. The thrilling adventures that befall him are ingeniously pictured in Goldwyn's latest photoplay feature "Yellow Men and Gold," from the pen of the master raconteur, Gouverneur Morris, which shows at the Eltinge, Friday and Saturday. Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix are at the head of a cast of characters that make this romantic film one of the most entertaining motion pictures of today.

One of the popular Asop Fabrics and a Movie Chat are also on the program.

Frozen Strawberries

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH, Cooking Authority for NEA Service and Columbia University.

1 box or 1 quart berries
1 cup or less sugar
2 egg whites (unbeaten)
1 cup cream (beaten until stiff)

Pick over, wash, and slightly mash the berries. Sprinkle with the sugar and let stand for an hour or two. Place in freezer can, add egg whites, unbeaten, and cream. Freeze as you would freeze any cream.

Note—This recipe cannot be successfully made in a vacuum freezer. The mixture must be turned while freezing. For a vacuum freezer use no egg whites, and twice as much cream. Pack in salt and ice.

Any kind of berries or fruit may be used in the same way.

The serving of food—how important! Often a dish excellent as to taste and quality of material, loses by not being properly served.

The psychology of cooking, serving and eating is a big consideration. "Hunger is the best sauce," but not every one is hungry, and food must be made attractive to those whose appetites are fickle.

Sometimes it is just a matter of garnish, sometimes it is the shape, or individual serving, and often it is the beauty of the dish in which it is served.

Some reader will say, "That may be true, but not all of us can afford pretty dishes." True, not expensive ones, but often the less expensive one is the prettier.

Cheap novelty stores have very attractive individual glass dishes and fruit glasses with the stem like a champagne glass, which make an ordinary dessert look elaborate.

MANY CHANGES IN RISK RATES ARE ANNOUNCED

Reductions Made in 110 Classifications by Compensation Bureau

More than 125 changes are made in compensation insurance rates of the North Dakota Workmen's Compensation Bureau, in new schedules adopted today for the year from July 1, 1922, to July 1, 1923. Of this number about 110 reflect decreases in rates while 16 represent changes. Some rates are unchanged.

The schedule of rates adopted by the bureau were worked out by H. D. Bangert, of Columbus, O., actuary for the bureau, being changed in some respects by the bureau. They are based, it is stated, partly upon the experience of compensation insurance in other states because of the limited experience in North Dakota. The reduction in manual rates follows a review of rules of the bureau which tended to further decrease rates, according to members of the bureau.

The principal reductions in the insurance rate (based on each $100 of payroll of a firm) follows:

Milling business, $3.15 to $2.95; oil distributing companies, $2.25 to $1.90; automobile garages, $1.40 to $1.25; hotels 60 cents to 45 cents; stores, clothing, hats, ladies ready-to-wear, etc., 30 to 25 cents; department stores, 35 to 25 cents; butchers and marketmen, $1.20 to $1.05; hardware stores, 45 to 40 cents; wholesale stores, (not otherwise classified), 50 to 35 cents; general stores, retail, such as groceries, drug stores, confectioneries, 50 to 35 cents; lumber yards, (no mill), $2.10 to $1.85; schools, 35 to 22 cents; threshing machines, $6.45 to $6.25; bakeries, $1.50 to $1.40; laundries, $1.00 to 95 cents; printers, 40 to 35 cents; newspaper offices, 35 to 30 cents; electrical equipment installation, $1.80 to $1.70; carpenters, away from shop, $9.45 to $9.00; contractors, private residence construction, $2.25 to $2.10; traveling salesmen, 35 to 30 cents; clerical and office employees, banks, etc., 16 to 12 cents; hospitals, 60 to 45 cents; restaurants and counter lunch rooms, 50 to 40 cents; balliard and bowling halls, 75 to 70 cents; barbers, 20 to 25 cents.

Among the rates which were increased were: Coal billet and briquette mfg., $2.85 to $3.00; packing houses $3.00 to $3.65; iron work (structural, erecting, building construction), $12.00 to $13.50; street and road making, $3.75 to $3.95; coal docks connected with railroads, $4.10 to $4.95; telegraph and telephone companies (operation, maintenance of lines), $3.35 to $3.95; furniture store dealers, store only, 95c to $1.20.

Coal mining rates, it was said at the bureau offices, were not changed.

INJURIES TO MUSCLES HELD NOT COVERED

St. Paul, July 14.—The workman's compensation act does not cover injuries resulting to the muscles and nerves through a too long continuance at a task that is too heavy for the employee, the supreme court decided today in the case of Julius J. Young, against the Melrose Granite Company.

The verdict awarded Young out of Stearns county district court was reversed by the supreme court. Young was granted $15 a week for 130 weeks and was allowed $1,020 for payments in arrears.

In this case the supreme court pointed out, Young received permanent injury to his arm and shoulder through continuous work on a defective stone surfacing machine in the granite shops at St. Cloud. He worked there from August 9, 1920 to December 18, 1920, and filed his claim in February, 1921.

St. Paul, July 14.—The special grand jury to investigate the alleged fictitious forest fire claims, reports to aggregate close to $2,000,000 will be called within the next two or three weeks, it was believed in federal court circles here today.

Lafayette French, United States district attorney, who will present the evidence before the grand jury, said today that he will probably make a request for the jury at the regular court session some time Monday. Judge Page Morris is busy with the present term of court and a definite date for the calling of the special grand jury is still uncertain.

FOREST FIRE CLAIMS TO GO TO JURY SOON

Keep An Eye On Your Eyes

Perhaps no one thing meant more to Roosevelt's happiness than his accidental discovery that his vision was defective. "I had no idea how beautiful the world was," he exclaimed, after glasses had "opened his eyes." And so it is with most of us. We are missing much of the world's beauties because—unknown to us—our vision is defective. Know that your eyes are 100% efficient—don't "guess." We can fit you to a pair of "Quality Beyond Question" glasses—if you need glasses.

Brooklyn, After Losing Seven Straight Games, Finally Emerges from Slump

DOAK IN ONE-HIT GAME

Chicago, July 11.—Pitching his second one-hit game of the season, Bill Doak, crack spitball artist of the Cardinals, captured a 1-0 duel from the Giants, and the Cardinals won their third and a half games of the season.

The Giants dropped a 12-inning battle to the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, when Caused weakened.

After losing seven straight games in the west, Brooklyn finally emerged from its slump and beat Cincinnati, 4-3, due to better pitching in the pinches and Vance's steady pitching.

The Tigers lost their third in four games to Philadelphia, 9 to 4. Good relief pitching by Lindsey and an eighth inning rally gave Cleveland its third straight victory over Boston, 4-2.

BOARDMAN GOES TO KANSAS CITY

Minneapolis, July 14.—Release of two pitchers and the return to the game Saturday of Bill Conroy, third baseman, who has been ill for several weeks, was announced by the Minneapolis American Association baseball club.

Harold Haid, pitcher, formerly with Columbus, has been released to St. Joseph, in the Western League, and Charles Boardman, another hurler, will go to Valley City in the Dakota League, and thence to Kansas City in the American Association.

HIGH HEELS FOR HEALTH, MOTTO

New York, July 11.—High heels for health, is a motto for women bearing the stamp of approval of the orthopedic specialists of the reconstruction hospital. Wearer of this fashionable dress necessary also were told to walk on heel and toe, with the toes pointed straight ahead, in the specialist report of their investigation. The hospital authorities also approved the use of high heeled slippers, with bathing suits to avoid weak or flat feet.

Cured by a Native Herb

On board a vessel bound for India recently a man was bitten by a poisonous reptile; both the ship doctor and a famous surgeon failed to control the poison fast spreading through his system. In a day the vessel reached port. An Indian medicine man was sent for, who produced a native herb which quickly allayed the poison and the man's life was saved. Roots and herbs are nature's assistants in combating disease. That well-known medicine for ailments peculiar to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is prepared from roots and herbs, possessing medicinal properties of great value in the treatment of such ailments. This is proved by the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper for it.

HERE ARE THREE STAR ACES WITH THE N. Y. YANKEES

WALLY SCHANG

While there is nothing spectacular about Catcher Wally Schang he is unquestionably one of the most valuable players on the New York club. With Schang doing the catching the club went right out in front. When the team came west it enjoyed a very comfortable lead and was a hot favorite to repeat in the American League.

Chicago was the first stopping place of the Yankees. The club won the first three games. Schang was injured in the final game, which was lost. With Schang on the hospital list New York proceeded to lose 13 out of its next 18 games on the road. That record is a silent tribute to Schang's real worth.

Schang is a great receiver. He has a wonderful arm, though sometimes lacking in accuracy, and is one of the most dangerous batters in the American League.

With Schang out of the game the crack staff of the Yankees slumped badly, all of which merely shows what part a crack catcher plays in the success of a ball club.

EVERETT SCOTT

When considering the most valuable player in the American League, the commission cannot afford to overlook Everett Scott, star shortstop of the New York Yankees.

By many of the experts Scott is rated as the best shortstop in the Johnsonian organization, and possibly in the game. Only Bancroft of the National League, and Peckinpaugh and Gerber of the American, can dispute that right.

Scott is a wonder on defense. He is at his best in a pinch, one of the greatest money players in the game. If there is one player in the Yankee line-up who will help the Yankees regain their winning edge, that player is Scott.

While not a hard hitter, Scott is very timely with his bingles. In a pinch many pitchers would rather face some of the 300 hitters in the Yankee line-up than Scott.

Although rather slight of stature, Scott is the iron man of the game. He holds all endurance records for steady play, having already taken part in well over 900 successive contests.

Scott does his work so easily and minus any flourish, that his greatness is often overlooked. However, he is sure to get serious consideration from the commission.

He was on a mad rampage of hitting that enabled him to break his record by cracking out 50 home runs. Many a one of those drives meant a ball game for the Yankees.

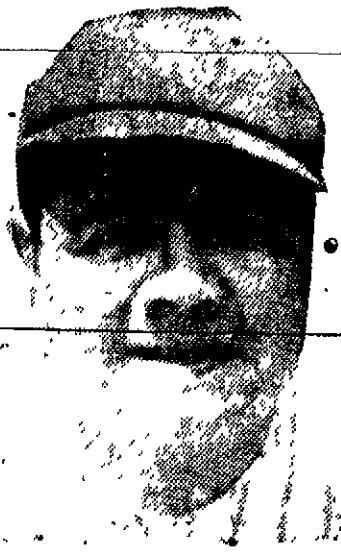

Ruth was showing the winning spirit, he was constantly imbuing the rest of the club with the germ.

Last year Ruth would have won the $1,000 award, pulled up.

How the mighty has fallen! The hero of last season is the dub of today. The cheers of 1921 have changed into the jeers of 1922.

Ruth lost seven weeks of play because of his suspension by Judge Landis. On his return to the game he failed to hit, which crabbled his disposition. Then followed several run-ins with the umpire that worked to the disadvantage of the New York club as well as Ruth.

Unless "Bambino" makes a wonderful comeback he can be counted out right now for the honor of being selected as the "Most Valuable Player in the American League."

BABE RUTH

A year ago at this time Babe Ruth would have been the universal choice as the most valuable player in the American League. Ruth was at the top of his game.

FRED MERKLE'S BLUNDER, THE MOST COSTLY EVER MADE

Usually failure to follow some simple rule of baseball produces the worst kind of bonehead plays on the ball field.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, the failure to properly complete the play, is not due to lack of knowledge, but rather to sheer carelessness on the part of some player.

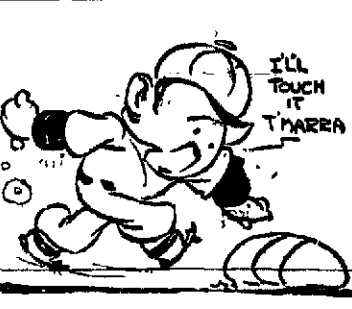

Failure to touch a base is the easiest way to create a bonehead play. As long as baseball is played players will continue to fail to touch the bases.

If such failure does not prove costly the omission is soon forgotten. Otherwise the careless player goes down in history in the list of "boneheads."

In all probability the most costly failure to touch a base is charged to Fred Merkle.

Chicago was playing New York. It was the ninth inning, the score was tied, two were out, and runners were on first and third. Merkle, then playing first base for the Giants, was the runner on first.

The batsman hit cleanly to the outfield, and the runner jogged across the plate with what was apparently the deciding run. Merkle, on first, ran within a few feet of second, and seeing the runner had crossed the plate, dashed for the club house.

Johnny Evers, playing second for Chicago, called for the ball, which was thrown to him by Hoffman. In the meantime the crowd was surging on the field. Evers touched second and Merkle was called out. His failure to touch the bag, simply made a force play at second.

This retired the side and the rules state no runs can score on a play in which the third out is a force play. That erased the run that apparently had won the game.

The game was never finished, as it ended in a tie score. New York and Chicago tied in the pennant race that year. It was necessary to play an extra game to decide the championship. Chicago won the game and the right to play in the series.

Merkle's "bone" was the costliest ever made. Had he touched second

IT'S WONDERFUL DECLARES MISS ANNA PADDOCK

St. Paul Woman, Restored After Two Years of Suffering, Says Tanlac Hasn't an Equal Anywhere

"It's just wonderful the way Tanlac has built me up and relieved me of my troubles," said Miss Anna Paddock, of 1042 Randolph St., St. Paul, Minn.

"For more than two years my stomach was in a badly disordered condition. There were things I never dared eat, but no matter how careful I was I bloated up with gas and had intense pains in my sides and my nerves wouldn't let me rest day or night. In spite of everything I did I kept getting worse and felt weak, miserable and dependent all the time.

"Tanlac helped me from the very first dose and now I can eat just whatever I please and never feel a touch of indigestion, the pains have all left me, my nerves are steady and I sleep fine. Tanlac has made me like an altogether different person. Tanlac is sold by all druggists.

the Giants would have won the pennant. The owners would have realized a small fortune and each player a fancy figure.

BIG INCREASE IN CAR SALES

Willis-Overland Records Show 348% Increase over 1921

Willis-Overland during second quarter, just finished, has had one of the best business periods in years, according to Willis-Overland officials. The popularity of the product never has shown greater evidence of public approval. Shipments for the next quarter are forecasted by orders on hand should exceed 50,000 cars.

Compared with the first five months of 1921, the increase in Willis-Overland sales for the first five months of 1922 throughout the United States is 348%.

The South particularly has come back with a great increase, sales in one section being 118% greater than last year. The total increase for the South is 406%.

The Central division shows an increase of 405% and this includes two localities where the increase is particularly significant. These are the Toledo district and the Detroit district. Toledo is the home of Willis-Overland and Detroit is the home of most of Willis-Overland competitors. In these two localities Willis-Overland sales have shown extraordinarily high percentage of increase this year.

Willis-Overland officials attribute this tremendous growth in Willis-Overland sales this spring to the extraordinary economy of the Willis-Knight-Overland cars and the extreme care used to make every car turned out as nearly as possible a perfect automobile.

$500 REWARD WAS PRICE SET ON "CUSTER WOLF," PIRATE OF RANGE

Pierre, S. D., July 14.—The rise and fall of the notorious "Custer Wolf," pirate of the range in a territory about 40 to 65 miles in extent in the vicinity of Custer has gone down as history. The recent year-down of the federal department of agriculture has the following to say regarding the states one time great-est killer:

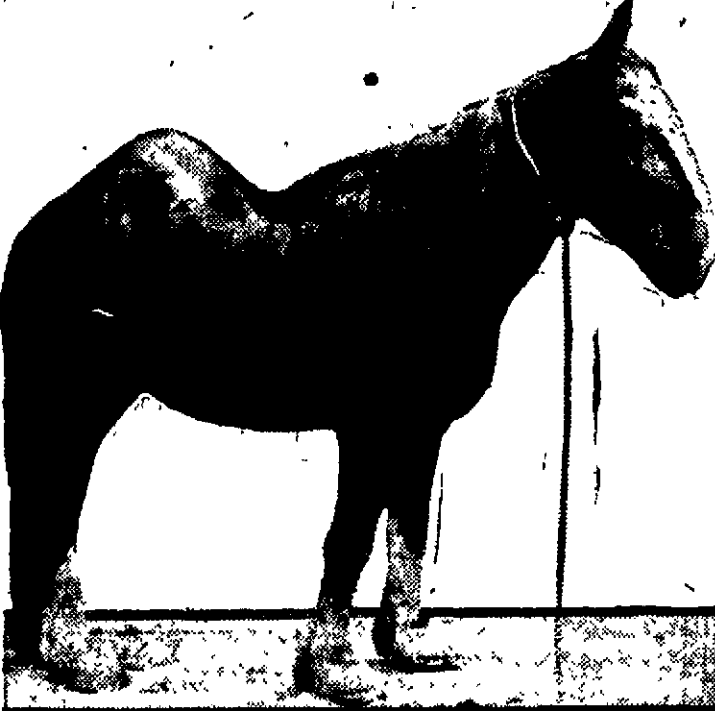

"During the six or seven years the 'Custer Wolf' is known to have plagued the Custer territory, stockmen who suffered from his depredations estimated that he had killed at least $25,000 worth of cattle. His killings were particularly exasperating, owing to the number of stock slaughtered at times when he appeared to go on a killing debauch, and to the savage mutilation of others—many cows having been killed for the sole purpose of devouring their unborn calves.

"Because of this and of the reputation which the animal had gained for supernatural cunning in eluding hunters and avoiding skillfully placed traps and temptingly prepared poison baits, unusual efforts had been made by stockmen to 'get him.' Stockmen driven to desperation, offered increasingly large bounties, until there was a price of $500 on his head. Still he escaped.

"The death of the 'Custer Wolf' was hailed with delight by stockmen throughout the region where the depredation had occurred, and has added impetus to a movement for cooperation with the department in order to meet more adequately the needs of the livestock industry."

Would You Call This a Camel-Horse?

This steed was born just before prohibition went into effect. Maybe that's the reason for the hump on his back. He worked for a farmer at Altoona, N. Y., but a collector of freaks bought him for a side-show.

RUSS RELIEF BODY EXTENDS TO NO. DAKOTA

Minnesota Russian Relief Representative to Organize New Body

GIVEN ENDORSEMENT

The Northwest Russian Relief committee will be formed to seek aid in North and South Dakota, it was announced here today by L. Abrahamson, field representative of the Minnesota Russian Relief Committee after obtaining endorsement by Governor R. A. Nestos of the proposed plans. Administration of both the Minnesota and Northwestern bodies will be directed from the office of the Minnesota Russian Relief Committee, Minneapolis, Mr. Abrahamson said. Committees will be named immediately in every county in North Dakota to campaign for funds, and similar organizations will be completed in South Dakota and Iowa. Mr. Abrahamson added, declaring that the need for American aid for Russian starving is as great as ever. Governor R. A. Nestos endorsed the movement in a letter in which he said that he had investigated the Minnesota Russian Relief organization and believed "that both the collection and the distribution of the relief is handled economically and well." Money used for administrative purposes is collected in a separate fund, he said, so that contributions to the organization go directly to suffering Russians. The American Friends Service Committee, at which the Minnesota organization is a subsidiary, has been approved by Secretary Herbert Hoover, the governor added.

Mr. Abrahamson said that the organization is willing and anxious to co-operate with churches and other organizations. He praised the spirit of the people of Minnesota, saying that over $100,000 had been raised and that over $95,000 worth of food, clothes, bed clothing and medicine had been forwarded. Because flour manufacturers and others had sold supplies virtually at cost and free transportation to New York has been obtained one dollar is doing the work of two, he said.

COUPLE FOUND DEAD JUST OUT OF MILL CITY

Murder and Suicide or Double Murder, Is Verdict of Authorities

(By the Associated Press)
Minneapolis, July 14.—A man and woman, believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Comstock of St. Paul, were found shot to death in an automobile near Minnetonka Mills, about six miles from here today. Although they are thought to be victims of a murder and suicide, the authorities began investigating the possibility they may have been murdered.

The automobile was found parked about two blocks west of the railroad tracks and had been drawn up to the side of the boulevard. No effort had been made to conceal the car but the fact that it was a few feet off the highway and that its curtains were drawn prevented passing automobiles from learning of the tragedy.

A revolver found in the car had been fired until its chambers were emptied, then had been reloaded and one shot fired after re-loading. The empty shells were in the car.

Mrs. Comstock had not been living with her husband, according to information to the authorities. Monday he called her by telephone and made an appointment with her, it was learned. They apparently went out together, for she left her residence about the same time that Comstock left the garage with the car Monday.

DISCOVERED BY PEDESTRIAN
(By the Associated Press)
Minneapolis, July 14.—A young man and woman were found shot to death in an automobile at the outskirts of Minnetonka Mills, about six miles from Minneapolis shortly before noon. Apparently they were victims either of a double murder or of a murder and suicide. A revolver was found in the bottom of the car. The young woman had been shot twice through the head and a single bullet had been fired into the head of the man.

The two had apparently gone to their deaths late Thursday and the car with its gruesome load remained beside the road 12 hours while hundreds of automobilists passed by.

The discovery of the crime was made today by a pedestrian who saw a man's foot sticking out of the machine.

SOUTH DAKOTA WILL VOTE TO HARNESS MISSOURI AT MOBRIDGE, IN NOVEMBER

Pierre, S. D., July 13.—Delaying the construction of the proposed state owned hydro-electric plant at Mobridge has saved the state two and one-half million dollars in the opinion of Dr. D. W. Mead, senior member of the engineering firm of Mead and Senstone, who made the original estimates.

The engineers estimates of the cost of the plant and transmission lines based on prices for labor and materials prevailing January 1, 1920, was $16,147,000. In a recent letter to the hydro-electric commission, Dr. Mead says:

"We have gone over the estimates made as of January 1, 1920, for the Mobridge hydro-electric development and believe the estimate made in our report filed then can at this time be conservatively reduced by $2,500,000."

Whether the state will undertake the development of the proposed Mobridge plant will be determined by the voters at the November election.

U. S. TRAVELERS HAVE TO PAY $10.00 PER HEAD

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, July 14.—Collecting ten dollars gold from American travelers every time a passport is used continues to be one of the popular occupations of officials of the state of Central Europe.

Any American who wishes to visit one of these countries must pass the frontiers of several of the others and at each frontier the charge is ten dollars a head, and ten dollars every time he passes. An American business man within the past three months has paid $120. "But don't blame us, blame your state department," said a representative.
